two batteries of paper-and-pencil test objects, a verbal one, and a figural one, which can be utilized in all phases from kindergarten to graduate school. Common "activities," as they are referred to, comprise listing potential side effects of the action within an intriguing image, citing methods of bettering a toy, and integrating a curved line in drawing an unusual image. The item is to test for 4 traits of creative thinking: flexibility, originality, fluency, and elaboration.
